USfalcon awarded contract to support Air Force Space Command

Morrisville, N.C. – The Air Force Space Command (AFSPC) in Colorado Springs, CO has awarded the Innovation, Integration, Information Support (3IS) contract to USfalcon Inc for program management, resource management, security, and network management support to the Space Innovation Development Center (SIDC) at Schriever AFB, Colorado. The 3IS contract was awarded to USfalcon for $64M and has a period of performance starting 1 April 2011 for 69 months.

“The team of companies that USfalcon assembled to win this contract is top shelf,” stated Pete von Jess, Chairman/CEO “and I know will provide outstanding support to the SIDC. It has been a long procurement cycle for this effort and USfalcon is ready to get started.”

USfalcon will be the prime contractor leading the winning team consisting of subcontractors; Lockheed Martin, Booz Allen Hamilton, Schafer, Teledyne CollaborX, Analytical Systems Inc, Master Solutions, PRKK, Radiant Blue and Technology Service Corp.

Dale Smith, USfalcon 3IS Program Director stated, “We are pleased with the announcement, pleased with our team and are already rolling up our sleeves to prepare to assume the support activities and become a key member of the SIDC team.”
